

This is a YouTube video created by the European Institute for Gender Equality, it focuses on the ways in which inequalities intersect with one and other, it does so through a series of easy to read, easily accessible infographics.

This would be a useful tool to anyone seeking to teach about the intersections of inequalities. Please find the video here.

The image shows a YouTube video player interface. At the top left is the YouTube logo. To its right is a search bar. Below the search bar is a large thumbnail image for the video. The thumbnail features a central white circle containing two purple gender icons (a woman and a man). Behind the circle is a grey background with white diagonal stripes. In the bottom right corner of the thumbnail, there is a red banner with the word "GENDER" in white capital letters and a small white female icon above it. Below the thumbnail is a dark grey control bar. On the left side of the bar are three white icons: a play button, a skip forward button, and a volume icon. In the center of the bar is a progress bar showing a red segment followed by a grey segment, with the text "0:15 / 1:23". On the right side of the bar are several white icons: a gear, a square, and a double square. Below the video player, the title "Intersecting inequalities" is displayed in a bold black font. Underneath the title is the text "398 views". To the right of the views count are several interaction icons: a thumbs up with the number "7", a thumbs down with the number "0", a share icon labeled "SHARE", and a more options icon. At the very bottom of the image, the European Institute for Gender Equality logo (a blue star with "EIGE" next to it) is visible, along with the text "European Institute for Gender Equality" and "Published on Sep 7, 2018". To the right of this information is a red button with the text "SUBSCRIBE 2.8K".
