

WOMANITY AWARD

Request for Proposals – Q&A

Which organizations are eligible to respond to Requests for Proposals (RFPs)?

We issue RFPs to a targeted and researched list of organizations, following our call for nominations. Selected organizations receive an invitation from the Womanity Foundation, to submit a proposal before 30th of October 2015.

My organization did not receive an invitation. May we submit a proposal anyway?

We do not accept unsolicited proposals.

How do I get my organization on the invitee list for future RFPs?

As part of our RFP preparation, the Womanity Foundation works with experts in the field to research organizations whose expertise and reputation align with our desired outcomes.

If you are working in the area the Womanity Award focuses on, we encourage you to share your stories of innovation and impact with us, via servane@womanity.org, or using the call for nomination available on our website, until 28th August 2015. Please keep in mind that we do not accept unsolicited proposals.

My organization has been invited to respond, but we have questions about the RFP.

Who can we direct them to?

If the eligibility criteria or the RFP pack still don't answer your questions, please direct your questions by email to servane@womanity.org

What is the submission process?

Details can be found in the RFP pack, under "Timeline".

What funding is available?

The winning Innovation-Scale up partners will receive up to CHF 300,000 worth of professional services, staff time, learning events, field visits, impact measurement, and any relevant expertise or resources necessary for the scaling up of the program, for 3 years.

In addition, the Womanity Foundation will include the Innovation and Scale-Up partners in its international network, opening visibility and new fundraising opportunities.

What are the selection criteria for proposals?

Applicants need to provide specific, comprehensive and succinct answers to the questions shared in the Proposal Questions part, in the RFP pack.
