

Germany(2012; 2013-2016; 25 pgs.)

The German NAP is interesting because the Federal Government had made it clear in past years that it did not see the value in adopting a NAP and preferred a ‘mainstreaming approach’. Nevertheless, the Government adopted a NAP to “redouble the strategic orientation of its efforts in the implementation of Resolution 1325” (pg. 5). The NAP is relatively unspecific although it is fairly comprehensive in laying out many different activities under the six priority areas. The Germany NAP is the only NAP to include ‘Criminal Prosecution’ as a separate priority area.

|                           |    |                           |   |
|---------------------------|----|---------------------------|---|
| Drafting                  | 1  | Leading Agents            | Not specified   |
|                           | 2  | Involved Parties          | Federal Foreign Office, Federal Ministry for Family Affairs, Senior Citizens, Women and Youth, Federal Ministry of the Interior, Federal Ministry of Justice, Federal Ministry of Defense, and the Federal Ministry for Economic Cooperation and Development            |
|                           | 3  | Civil Society Involvement | Non-specific; mentions consultation with civil society stakeholders and makes reference to influence from a proposal of the German civil society alliance – Bundnis 1325  |
| Implementation            | 4  | Timeline                  | Not specified   |
|                           | 5  | Roles                     | Yes   |
|                           | 6  | Communication             | Inter-ministerial working group comprised of involved government Ministries   |
|                           | 7  | Priority Areas            | 1. Prevention2. Preparation of operations, basic, advanced and continuing training3. Participation4. Protection5. Reintegration and reconstruction6. Criminal Prosecution   |
|                           | 8  | Financial Allocation      | Non-specific; mentions that ministries will take into consideration the actions detailed in the NAP when employing the funds at their disposal  |
|                           | 9  | Partnership(s)            | Mentions placing a particular emphasis on optimal coordination of activities at the international level; Germany is also a member of the informal group ‘Friends of 1325’ and has supported studies in the UN’s Secretariat on Mainstreaming Gender in Peace Operations |
| Monitoring and Evaluation | 10 | Indicators                | Uses EU indicators on women, peace and security but unclear how these related to specific activities laid out in the NAP  |
|                           | 11 | Reporting                 | The Federal Government will report to the German Bundestag on its implementation at the end of the respective validity periods  |
|                           | 12 | Civil Society Monitoring  | Non-specific; civil society organizations will be invited to an annual meeting assessing the status of NAP implementation   |

Click here for the full report